

The OPC Timothy Conference

April 15–18, 2026

Charlotte, North Carolina

The OPC Timothy Conference is for promising young men who are nominated by their sessions and willing to be educated and challenged regarding the call to gospel ministry. Attendance will be limited in order to enhance the experience of the men who attend.

The purpose of the OPC Timothy Conference is to seek out and encourage godly young Orthodox Presbyterian men to consider the gifts that God has given them and whether the Lord of the church may be calling them to pursue gospel ministry.

This goal is in accordance with the mandate given to the Subcommittee on Ministerial Training by the general assembly to “assist the churches in seeking out men with apparent gifts for the gospel ministry, and in pressing upon them its urgent claims.” This goal is also in keeping with the apostle Paul’s exhortation to young Timothy to “fan into flame the gift of God, which is in you” (2 Tim. 1:6) and “guard the good deposit entrusted to you” (2 Tim. 1:14). Paul also said, “What you have heard from me . . . entrust to faithful men who will be able to teach others also” (2 Tim. 2:2). Young, unordained “Timothys” are to be found in the covenant homes of OPC church families where the spirit and practice of a Lois or Eunice live on today (2 Tim. 1:5).

Participating in the OPC Timothy Conference will be those who are already ministers, as Paul was, together with young men who must be urged to take up fully the “gospel trust” given to the church and its ministers.

The 2026 OPC Timothy Conference will take place in Charlotte, North Carolina, on the campus of Reformed Theological Seminary. The conference will include the opportunity to attend a seminary class and to hear lectures from experienced Orthodox Presbyterian officers.

TOPICS AND SPEAKERS

We are pleased to have as conference speakers men who have pastoral, teaching, and church-planting experience and are deeply involved in the preparation of men for gospel ministry as mentors and instructors. This will also include Rev. Dr. Chad Van Dixhoorn who will give a talk on the Westminster Assembly.

The Call to the Ministry

Rev. Joel D. Fick (pastor of Redemption OPC in Gainesville, Florida, and a member of the Subcommittee on Ministerial Training) will explore the various ecclesiastical and personal elements involved in a call to the ministry and provide guidance for the participants in their own consideration of whether to pursue the ministry.

Seminary Education: What and Why

Rev. Dr. David M. VanDrunen (professor at Westminster Seminary California and a member of the Subcommittee on Ministerial Training) will explain what a Reformed seminary education involves and why we believe that it is necessary for future ministers in light of our commitment to raising up a learned ministry.

The Office of Minister

Rev. Dr. Harrison Perkins (pastor of Oakland Hills Community church in Farmington Hills, Michigan, and member of the Subcommittee on Ministerial Training) will describe the responsibilities and privileges of the office of minister. He will explain the distinctions between pastors, teachers, and evangelists. He will also describe the various tasks that constitute a minister's work and emphasize the importance of this office for the well-being of the church and the witness of the gospel.

The Process Toward Ordination

Rev. Danny E. Olinger (general secretary of the Committee on Christian Education) will draw together the elements of instruction received during the conference and set out the various steps that a candidate for OPC ministry must undergo as he comes under care, is licensed, and is finally ordained. He will give a sense of the work of a presbytery's candidates and credentials committee and the nature of the exams that it administers and will indicate how seminary education and pastoral internships fit into this process.
